

MOUNTAIN MOMENTS

In 2010, Acclaim Press is publishing a full-size coffee table book of approximately 200 photographs by Appalachian renown photographer Warren Brunner with running text by Al Fritsch. Early bird copies may be obtained at $29.95 (regular price $34.95). Additional details on how to obtain this masterpiece, which has been over two decades in the making, will be forthcoming.

Invitation

The Appalachian Mountains influence us in many ways and, in their own way, help raise our hearts and minds to God. Also they are able to change the way we live and think about ourselves and others.

Mountains have their own characteristics and when we live among them; these good attributes help make us better for being here. This interaction of land and people is worth reflecting upon and we are convinced is worth passing on to others.

We seek to demonstrate the ABCs of just some of these mountain characteristics through photographs and accompanying reflections and prayers. We suspect that we have only tapped the surface and that deep within the recesses of our hills are many other wonderful characteristics that are awaiting discovery. Our invitation is that you attend to the mountain moments of your own lives and help us uncover the spiritual wealth that is forthcoming. We would like to know your own thinking on this subject.

Warren Brunner

Al Fritsch, SJ